Bay St. Louis police are investigating in incident in which a car plunged into the water underneath the Bayou La Croix Bridge on Hwy. 603 on Sunday.

Witnesses at the scene said the driver, a woman, went into the water inside the vehicle, but swam to safety.

The accident occurred at 7:41 a.m., Bay St. Louis Police Chief Gary Ponthieux said in a press release.

"Upon arrival, officers determined that a vehicle driving southbound on Highway 603 had left the roadway and drove into Bay Lacroix," Ponthieux said in the release. "The driver and only occupant of the vehicle escaped without injuries. No damage was done to the bridge or roadway."

Bay P.D., deputies from the Hancock County Sheriff's Office and officers from the Mississippi Department of Marine Resources responded to the scene.

Big Boy Status Towing of Kiln pulled the car from the river.

NASA Stennis Space Center announces 2018 Astro Camp schedule

SEA COAST ECHO

The NASA Stennis Space Center Education Office announces the schedule and registration details for its 2018 Stennis Astro Camp®, a series of week-long summer camps held in June and July (excluding the week of July 4th). Camps are held at INFINITY Science Center, located at the intersection of I-10 Exit 2 and Highway 607. The program launches on June 4, with weekly camps running through July 20. The program is developed with age-appropriate STEM (science, technology, engineering and math) activities and NASA content for student groups in grades 2-4, 5-7 and 8-10. Astro Camp® is a part of the NASA Out of School-time Learning and Human Exploration Organization initiatives, which seek to provide opportunities for learners to engage in STEM education activities that capitalize on NASA's unique assets and content to inspire future astronauts and engineers to learn about space. All Astro Camp® instructors are certified educators with STEM experience to ensure the robust instruction for campers, and Astro Camp® counselors are college-enrolled NASA interns. Additional certified educators will be participating in the 2018 Astro Camp® educational professional development program throughout the summer, connecting classrooms to NASA's educational resources supporting both Next Generation Science Standards, and College and Career Readiness Standards, all applied utilizing NASA Astro Camp® methodologies. The theme for this year's Astro Camp® is "Together We Go Farther ... Moon ... Mars ... & Beyond!" Astro Camp® presents math and science principles through fun, hands-on activities that teach teams of campers to work together to complete missions. Astro Camp® sessions provide campers the NASA experience of aeronautics from first flight to space flight; technology engineering design with coding and robotics applications; and solar system-and-beyond activities featuring planets, moons, stars, and galaxies, with an encompassing survey of Earth systems. Human exploration activities include real-world applications for living and working on the International Space Station today and for preparing the next generation of explorers to live and work on the Moon and Mars tomorrow. The 8th-10th grade STARS Astro Camp® includes extensive computer-focused robotics exercises and a hands-on 3D-printing experience with emphasis on engineering design applications. Distance-learning experiences are featured, using NASA center experts and educators throughout NASA. An additional week is scheduled for the STARS Astro Camp®, featuring the U.S. Navy Research Laboratory's SeaPerch remotely-operated vehicle program and NASA sharing activities from space to ocean robotics. Each camp week culminates in a tour of Stennis Space Center, including the rocket engine test stands, the launching of each camper's own Estes rockets and parent participation in closing ceremonies each Friday. Registration for the 2018 camps begins on March 29, 2018, and continues on a first-come, first-served basis until all camps are filled. All registration must be completed and mailed to the address provided on the Astro Camp® website listed below. For more information, contact the Stennis Education Office at 228-688-3485. To register, visit the Astro Camp® webpage at: <https://www.nasa.gov/centers/stennis/education/students/astrocamp.html> For more information about Stennis Space Center, visit: www.nasa.gov/centers/stennis/

GUEST OPINION

Publisher/Northside Sun

He is Risen

There was no deathbed conversion for famous physicist Stephen Hawking.

"I regard the brain as a computer which will stop working when its components fail. There is no heaven or afterlife for broken down computers; that is a fairy story for people afraid of the dark," Hawking said before his death.

In his 2010 book, "The Grand Design," Hawking asserted that there is no need for a creator to explain the existence of the universe.

Hawking is dead. May he rest in peace. In 2,000 years, no one will know his name. His life, as King Solomon predicted in Ecclesiastes, will be meaningless vanity. But Jesus Christ, a poor carpenter from a tiny village in the middle of nowhere, will still be King of the universe.

I doubt Hawking ever read the Bible. He was probably too busy trying to solve the equations of the universe. He made some great discoveries and advanced our worldly knowledge an infinitesimal amount.

Hawking deluded himself that he understood the nature of the universe. We know practically nothing. Just enough to scratch out our human existence.

Hawking was smart, no doubt, but he was not wise. King Solomon was wise, a gift he received from God. King Solomon knew his place in the world.

"I, the Teacher, was king over Israel in Jerusalem. I applied my mind to study and to explore by wisdom all that is done under the heavens. What a heavy burden God has laid on mankind! I have seen all the things that are done under the sun; all of them are meaningless, a chasing of the wind.

"Whatever exists is far off and most profound – who can discover it?

"As you do not know the path of the wind or how the body is formed in a mother's womb, so you cannot understand the work of God, the Maker of all things."

For Hawking to claim that his tiny bit of knowledge could explain the universe without God is not just unwise, it is patently stupid. Science is useful for our livelihood, but it cannot answer the larger philosophical and theological questions of human existence.

Fortunately, we have the Bible, the Word of God. It will tell us as much as we need to know about the bigger issues of life. Here's a basic lesson: There is a God and we're not him.

Like Hawking, we want to be God and know everything. Eating the fruit of the tree of knowledge was the first mistake of man, setting down a road of sin, frustration and futility.

We have learned quite a few things, but it has not changed the nature of mankind one iota. We are still helpless sinners, here only by the mercy and grace of God.

Thanks to Hawking and his fellow astrophysicists, we know that 95 percent of the universe is composed of

The stages of love in married life

When a man and woman are joined in marriage as young people, the first stage of their love is easy to discern. It is safe to call their first decade of marriage ten years of passion, for it was the magnet of passionate love that first drew them to communicate with each other. Percy Sledge sang it best, "When a man loves a woman, can't keep his mind on nothing else!" This is how most marriages begin.

The exception might be the case where a couple were friends (storge, the Greek for friendship love) before eros (Greek for erotic love) was ignited. In many ways, experiencing storge before eros is a much better guarantee of lasting love.

In that first decade of marital love, the chemical power and magic of estrogen and testosterone mix with the outreach and imagination of the human longing for love to create the human foundation for the treasure of love. That foundation we refer to as young love that has all the ingredients for fulfilling, lasting love, but must be tested, tempered and matured in the cauldron of everyday living. Those who refuse to grow will soon find that the well-spring of their love has been poisoned.

Ten years of fashion can be a description of the second decade of marital love. By then, a young couple have hit their stride in love and family life, tiptoeing into social life. Where children have entered their life, the couple is keenly aware of and faithful to their first obligation of rearing and educating their children. As their children grow, the young parents are gradually able to participate a bit in social life.

With most of the initial fire of passion still burning, they nevertheless feel freer to integrate their statements of fashion in social circles with the wonders of love and family. Almost imperceptibly, their initial decade of passion is beginning to morph into ten years of fashion, indicating that they are now a settled couple.

Of course, not consciously taking stock of the nature of their decades of married life, the settled couple move into ten years of compassion. No longer hot, the fire of passion is now warm and comfortable, leaving lots of room for heartfelt compassion and generous sharing among their own family members and in their workaday contacts with friends, coworkers and strangers alike. We say of a couple who are at this juncture in life that they are mellowing out. The years or decades between these stages of love are not necessarily well-defined.

Somewhere in this love mix, there are usually three other forms of love.

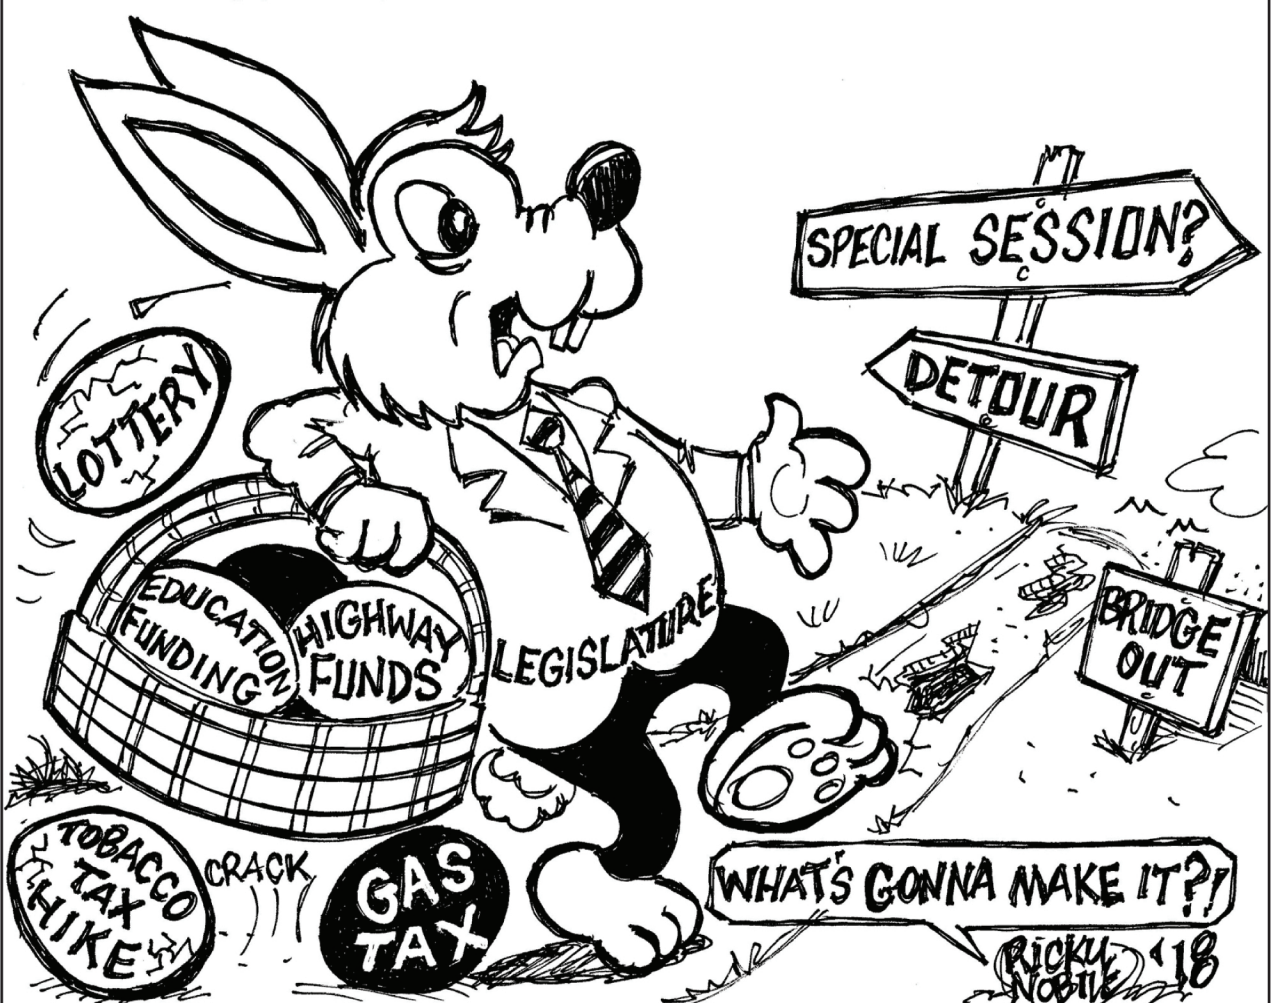

Pragma (the Greek for everyday business) is the name given to pragmatic love that does not allow itself to get lost in the fire of erotic love or the closeness of friendship love. Usually, pragmatic love is intimately tied into the pedestrian personality of an individual whose bent is to make everything, including love, as practical as possible.

Pragmatic love can be of great importance in our human quest for love, for it keeps our feet on the ground while our heart and mind explore the heights of emotion and human sentiments. Pragma should be complementary to all other forms of love.

Ludus, the Latin word for play or game, is the

LETTERS to THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

The Hancock County Alliance for Good Government would like to offer our congratulations to those public officials who made possible a restructuring of our local Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Board.

We'll start with former Mayor Les Fillingame, who last February, 2017, did not re-appoint Maurice Singleton, leaving that appointment to the new administration. Current Mayor, Mike Favre, and the new Bay St. Louis City Council replaced Singleton with Vicky Arnold, and most recently replaced Joan Thomas with Ann Lathrop.

Those of us who regularly attend School Board meetings, review claim dockets and test scores could not be more pleased in the new Board. We will hold them accountable for their opportunity to make the long overdue improvements to the School District.

One has been accomplished, that being the resignation of Superintendent Vicky Landry, which ends the nepotism arrangement in the School District Business office between her and her brother, Business Administrator, John McCraw. The Director of the Miss. Ethics Commission and the Attorney General both advised against this arrangement last year, and it has finally been accomplished. Sadly they prevailed for 12 months in violation of state law to the tune of $217,000 in salaries for these two. We feel those funds could have been better spent on the students and their teachers.

Next, and actually, most important on our list of challenges for the new Board is to address the academic conditions of our two elementary schools. North Bay dropped from a "B" rated school to a "C" and Waveland from an "A" to a "D" as reported by the State Department of Education.

We will continue to attend the School Board meetings, and hopefully witness some long awaited leadership that will result in the most important goal for our community--putting the kids first, and developing a personnel roster that can make that happen.

Bay PD investigating domestic dispute

SEA COAST ECHO
STAFF REPORT

Pugh

On March 22, officers with the Bay St. Louis Police Department responded to the Super 8 Motel in response to a domestic dispute and attempted strangulation, Bay St. Louis Police Chief Gary Ponthieux announced Monday.

At 11:06 a.m., the officers discovered that "Kathryn Alisha Pugh punched and attempted to strangle Candace Alicia Workman," Ponthieux said in the release.

Pugh and Workman — who were involved in a romantic relationship — engaged in a verbal altercation prior to the physical attacks, the release states.

Pugh was charged with domestic aggravated assault and transported to the Hancock County Jail with no bond, pending her initial appearance, the release states.

The investigation is ongoing, Ponthieux said in the release.

"dark matter" and "dark energy." Just what that weird stuff is, we have no idea.

We know quantum mechanics works and now we have GPS and Google Maps. We just have no idea how it works or why. The more we look into the mystery box, the more questions emerge. And it will always be so.

Hawking had no more standing to proclaim there is no God, than I do to proclaim there is a God. This is a matter of faith and faith alone. Science cannot resolve the issue of faith.

When Jesus Christ rode a donkey into Jerusalem the crowd cried out "Hosanna!" They were shouting in Hebrew, "Save us." They wanted to be saved from the Romans, but Jesus had a higher purpose.

The Merriam Webster definition of "save" is to "stop something from failing or ending; to keep something from being lost or wasted."

Applying Hawking's analogy that our minds are just computers, we "save" files and photos all the time. We delete bad photos.

Atheist computer geeks are fascinated by the idea that life is some sort of simulated computer game created by an advanced society. But then mention God in that context and religion becomes a silly fairy tale.

God can save us by his grace, forever, with all our loved ones intact, in a way we can never comprehend. Or he can delete us forever. It's his world and he rules. That's why a wise person should fear God.

Likewise, God can rewrite the program anyway he wants. He can run it backwards, forwards, skip ahead, stop the sun, part a river, annihilate an army and choose a virgin to give birth. He can even raise the dead.

There is a reason those who study the Bible end up believers. How could prophets living hundreds of years before the birth of Christ predict he would ride into Jerusalem on a donkey? Or not be pierced? Or have billions from every corner of the earth one day proclaim him King?

Astronomer and mathe-matician Peter Stoner, in his book Science Speaks, offers a mathematical analysis showing that it is impossible that the precise statements about the One to come could be fulfilled in a single person by mere coincidence.

"The chance of only eight of these dozens of prophecies being fulfilled in the life of one man has been estimated at 1 in 10 to the 17th power. That would be one chance in 100,000,000,000,000,000," he writes.

As Hawking said, "We are each free to believe what we want and it is my view that the simplest explanation is there is no God. No one created the universe and no one directs our fate. This leads me to a profound realization. There is probably no heaven, and no afterlife either. We have this one life to appreciate the grand design of the universe, and for that, I am extremely grateful."

Even Hawking acknowledges that the universe is fine-tuned to a degree almost impossible to comprehend. If gravity, electromagnetism or the nuclear forces were altered even slightly, the universe could not exist. How slightly? That would be one in a number followed by thousands of zeros.

Hawking's answer to this? Anthopism. No matter how small the odds, we wouldn't be here to calculate them unless they came to be.

No, the simplest explanation is there is an all-powerful creator God and it ain't us. He created the universe from nothing (which Hawking acknowledges)! Science is practical but the Bible explains the bigger picture in a simple way that we humans can digest, if we apply ourselves. Jesus is the most influential person who ever lived because he performed miracle after miracle and ultimately rose from the dead. That got our attention!

Before the resurrection, life was meaningless vanity. But all that is now changed for those who believe.

Despite witnessing dozens of miracles, disciple Thomas still didn't believe. "Until I see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into his side, I will not believe."

So Jesus took Thomas' hand and put it into his gaping wound. "My Lord and God" was all Thomas could say.

Jesus responded: and still believe."

"Because you have seen you believe. Blessed are those who have not seen name given to ludic love that is lighthearted and playful. Full of cheerfulness, ludic lovers are jovial and prone to tease each other, fulfilling the old saying, "People who love each other tease each other." As in the case of pragmatic love, ludic love is closely related to the personal temperament of individual lovers. A healthy amount of playfulness is desirable in an intimate relationship, except where the personalities of the lovers make it annoying.

At this point, it should be obvious that the makings of marital bliss are like a wonderful cake whose recipe consists of certain desirable ingredients. If one uses those ingredients in proper proportions, they will balance off and merge into the longed-for product. The ingredients in this case are love of friendship (storge), erotic love (eros), pragmatic love (pragma), ludic love (ludus) and benevolent love.

Agape, the Greek for benevolent love, the highest form of love predicated of God alone (from the Latin bene = well and volens = wishing), means well-wishing, the same as the Christmas message of "Peace on earth, good will to people."

Finally, pulling all forms of love together, we wish endless years of Agape for married couples as well as for the unmarried. Although properly predicated of God alone, we humans do our best to work benevolent love into our lives, trusting that agape will animate and supercharge storge, eros, pragma and ludus.

Seldom do Italians literally say, "I love you," which would be "Ti amo" in Italian (Te amo in Latin). Usually, they tell the beloved, "Ti voglio bene," that means literally, "I wish you well." That is agape, benevolent love, the message of Christmas.

Mississippi State Department of Health Reaches Out to Clients

SEA COAST ECHO

JACKSON, Miss. — Today letters were sent to Mississippi residents notifying that protected health information such as name, date of birth, social security number or lab results was accidentally released to J Michael Consulting, a contractor for the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). This could have resulted in an unauthorized disclosure since the information was not meant to be shared.

On January 30, 2018, the Mississippi State Department of Health (MSDH) became aware that an employee unknowingly emailed an Excel spreadsheet containing patients' protected health information. This information was sent January 25, 2018. Each person who mistakenly received the spreadsheet said they deleted all traces of the email from their inbox and did not share the email or what was in it. It is unlikely that the personal information was viewed by anyone. However, because this email was sent unprotected, there is a possibility that it was seen by someone who could misuse it. MSDH has taken steps to increase security and lessen any harm that could be caused to any individual patient.

Due to insufficient contact information, some clients whose information was included in the spreadsheet may not have received a notification letter. If a client was treated at the Mississippi State Department of Health or any of its clinics in 2017 and is concerned about possible unauthorized disclosure of information, they may contact Nicole Litton or Christin Williams at: 601-576-7874.

The MSDH recommends contacting the three major credit card companies to check your financial information: Equifax (800) 525-6285, Experian (888) 397-3742, and TransUnion (800) 680-7289.

The Mississippi State Department of Health will offer free credit monitoring protection for one year, for clients whose information was included in the spreadsheet. If any clients have questions or want to sign up for the free service call Nicole Litton or Christin Williams at: 1-866-458-4948 or 601-576-7874.

The identity of the victim will not be released publicly.

"All of the notifications were through (Hancock County) CPS and we followed up and gathered up enough evidence to make an arrest and charge him with it," Adam said.

"Domestic violence traumatizes the victim as well as the family," Sheriff Ricky Adam said. "We will not tolerate this kind of behavior from anyone, regardless of who you are, who you know, or where you work."

Moak has been placed on unpaid administrative leave pending the conclusion of this investigation and case, Skinner said.

Adam said Dardar was formally arrested at the sheriff's office.

"We served a search warrant yesterday afternoon where he was living," Adam said, "gathered up evidence, and he came in this morning with his attorney and after the interview, he was charged."

Dardar is currently being held without bond. There will likely be a bail hearing on Wednesday, Adam said.

A preliminary hearing on the charges is scheduled for April 24 in Hancock County Justice Court, according to court records.

Holy Trinity School Promote the Vote Contest Winners

SEA COAST ECHO
Last month, three sixth-graders from Holy Trinity Catholic School were honored at the State Capitol by participating in the statewide arts and writing Promote the Vote Contest.

Promote the Vote was started by Secretary of State Delbert Hosemann as a comprehensive k-12 voter education program. This year’s contest centered around “Mississippi’s Bicentennial Birthday” in celebration of the State’s 200-year history and allowed students to learn about their region of our State and generate discussion about their view of Mississippi’s future. More than 1,200 students entered the contest and 105 students were recognized at the Capitol. The State was divided into nine regions:

Coast Region, Piney Woods, Capital Area, East Central, Delta Region, Lower River, Clay Hills, Northeast Corner, and North Region. Participating students ranged from kindergarten to the twelfth grade. “One of the most important things we can teach our children is about our past because learning about the past makes us more informed voters at the ballot box in the future,” Secretary Hosemann said. 73 students won art awards and 32 students won essay awards. First-place winner will receive $100 from a sponsoring bank.

SEA COAST ECHO
Jason Fricke, a second-year welding student at the Hancock County Career Technical Center, has been honored by the Mississippi Construction Education Foundation (MCEF) as March Student of the Month for the state’s southern region. Jason was nominated for this award by his welding instructor, Chevis Necaise. Mr. Necaise selected Jason because of his strong work ethic and positive attitude. Dr. Chad Davis, HCCTC Director, describes Jason as a well-rounded student and an excellent representative of high school career technical programs in our state. Jason is also a member of SkillsUSA, a national career and technical student organization consisting of nearly 400,000 students. He competed in welding fabrication at the regional level competition last month and will be running for the state officer team at the Mississippi State SkillsUSA Competition in April. Upon graduation, Jason plans to continue his education by attending Pearl River Community College and then pursue a career in welding. Students of the month are selected from MCEF’s four districts based on grades, attendance, discipline, achievement, and leadership. Jason will join other Students of the Month at the foundation’s annual awards banquet in May, where he will compete for Student of the Year.

Relay for Life: Super Heroes Smash Cancer!

SEA COAST ECHO
Relay For Life is the American Cancer Society's signature fund-raising event, bringing communities together in hope, celebration and memory. Although short Survivor and Luminary Walks are included in the event, it is called "Relay" not for the "track star idea" but for the fact we are always "running a relay" to fight cancer and make cancer history! Building on that idea, this year's Gulf Coast local theme is Super Heroes Smash Cancer!

Relay For Life Event Day is a family friendly community event and everyone is encouraged to participate. Teams are usually formed with around 5-15 people from businesses, clubs, families, friends, hospitals, churches, schools, and other organizations. Team Captains can go to www.relayforlife.org/hancockms to register a team while inviting family and friends to join. While the highlight of the annual campaign is the Event Day, the fundraising doesn't end until August 31, 2018 and donations are accepted up to that date Relay Event Day is a fun day for everyone. The day starts with the traditional short Survivor Walk and Reception and festivities close with the beautiful Luminary Ceremony. Lighted candles in decorated luminaries of loved ones line the walkway and shine in honor/support/remembrance. During the day activities are offered for the entire family such as: line dancing, contests including our popular pie eating contest, music, and children's activities. Each team sells their fundraising items - all while having a great time!

New on the Gulf Coast this year: Harrison and Hancock County have partnered for the first shared Relay Day Event! In addition, the Buck Town All Stars will be playing for this great cause from 6pm-9pm!
Although admission is free, there will be lots of opportunities to purchase food,drinks, luminaries and other activities to support the American Cancer Society in their care of individuals and families living with cancer.
